

Let me tell you a bit about WeltPixel.

I'm sure you're familiar with the scenario in which you start building something and you just know it's gonna be great. You spend hours and hours trying to make every single doohickey work seamlessly with the thingamabobs, only to realize you've been running on the spot and you're no closer to the result you have in your head because you don't have the right tools for the job.

This scenario often applies to creating and maintaining an E-Commerce online store, and we thought up WeltPixel to avoid just that. We wanted a solution that could propel the stores we built to greatness, without the hassle of not being able to integrate design, features and functionality, so after many years of working with Magento and searching for a stable, scalable and well rounded foundation, we decided to stop looking and make it ourselves. That's how the Pearl Theme for Magento 2 was born.

We're developers, project managers, designers, engineers and even astronauts, but above all, we're real people with a common goal: Build insanely powerful and easy to use e-commerce solutions.

Because we understand the struggle that can be associated with E-Commerce, what we've dedicated ourselves to is accommodating the day to day online business as well as major corporations that want to maintain steady growth. What better way to achieve that than to provide them with the means to build a simple, reliable and user-friendly online store?

Here's how we do it:

- We strive to provide a complete Magento solution with the most needed functionalities that work seamlessly together - Cut costs and effort.
- We know the importance of maintaining compatibility with each Magento release - No abandoned extensions.
- We provide only one Magento Theme, well maintained and cared for - Quality over quantity.
- Constantly stay in touch with community and implement the feedback received into the products - Listen to every voice.

Our Mission: Go straight to growing your business. We build insanely powerful and easy to use solutions, so you can focus on growing your business instead of development.

Join us in keeping up to date with the industry, and let us help you bring your website to life.

All the best,

Dragos & Virgil,
